The call by Alberta’s provincial government for Expressions of Interest to determine business cases for investing in a new refinery in Alberta is seen as a positive step by the Alberta Industrial Heartland Association (AIHA).

“AIHA Executive Director Mark Plamondon said, “We continue to support government’s efforts to implement initiatives that provide for value-add energy investment opportunities in Alberta and, in particular, in Alberta’s Industrial Heartland. Diversifying the economy remains a top priority for Albertans and a refinery investment that leverages advantages here in Alberta’s energy cluster, such as regional infrastructure, access to rail, a 21st century skilled workforce, and abundant feedstock options, is a step in the right direction.”

Premier Rachel Notley announced the provincial government is issuing a Request for Expression of Interest to determine business cases for investing in a new refinery in Alberta or tied to Alberta production.

“For decades, Albertans have been talking about getting more value for our oil here at home,” Notley said. “Now’s the time to talk, and the decades of dreaming and start making more about getting more value for our oil here at home. We continue to support government’s efforts to implement initiatives that provide for value-add energy investment opportunities in Alberta, such as regional infrastructure, access to rail, a 21st century skilled workforce, and abundant feedstock options, is a step in the right direction.”

The Dec. 11 press release states building a new refinery would create good-paying, long-term jobs for Albertans. New refining capacity would also help lower the oil price differential over the long term, protect the province from a lack of capacity to export oil, and make sure full value is received for the energy resources owned by all Albertans.

The government will consider interest in new greenfield investments or an expansion of facilities at an existing brownfield site. Such missions will be accepted until Feb. 8, 2019, with the results helping inform next steps that may include issuing a Request for Proposals to construct a new refinery.

Companies will be required to submit their engineering design and technical feasibility, project timing and execution plans, plans for sales points and transportation to market, participation of Indigenous communities, expected environmental performance, financing to complete the project, and identification and estimates of revenues to benefit Albertans.

“Large industrial value-add energy investments help provide economic resilience and diversification, and create highly skilled, well-paying jobs for decades,” said Resource Diversification Advisory Council chair David Cappell. “Alberta has abundant feedstock, skilled labour and the ability to refine our resources to high-value products the world needs. There is significant international competition for these projects and for Alberta to compete, government and industry must work together. We commend the government’s focus on ensuring that the value of Alberta’s resources stays with Albertans.”

Building Trades of Alberta executive director Terry Parker said, “Building Trades of Alberta has always believed you should refine it where you mine it. By doing that, you maximize the value of our resources for the people of Alberta, while creating good jobs for skilled trades workers in our province. We thank the government for exploring new options for refining and upgrading here in Alberta.”

Energy Diversification Advisory Committee co-chairs Jeannette Patell and Gil McGowan gave this statement: “The work of the Energy Diversification Advisory Committee was focused on securing Alberta’s future in a more diversified oil and gas sector. It’s good to see another action that builds on Alberta’s strengths, including a highly skilled workforce and world-class resources. This is another signal the government is focused on made-in-Alberta solutions to ensure Alberta’s energy economy is built to last.”

Under this call for proposals, projects must have a strong return on investment for Albertans. Any proposed facility will consume Alberta-produced oil feedstock and produce marketable refined products. Such a facility is the Sturgeon Refinery, which has been refining Alberta’s synthetic crude for just over a year and is in the final stages of commissioning its heavy oil refining units. Its feedstocks are 75 percent bitumen royalties and 25 percent privately owned. When fully operational Phase 1 will process 79,000 barrels per day of diluted bitumen into ultra low sulphur diesel and other high value products.

The premier’s office did not respond before press time to an inquiry regarding whether consideration had been given to establishing a second BRK (bitumen royalties in kind) program which might encourage North West Redwater (NWR) Partnership to begin construction of Phase 2 of the Sturgeon Refinery. That would appear to be a fast way of having an additional value-added facility constructed while the Expression of Interest and Request for Proposals processes are undertaken.

Expressions of Interest have been used by the province in the past to obtain industry and public suggestions on major projects and how the government can utilize existing interest to maximize the value for Albertans.

Industrial Heartland supports provincial call for new refining capacity

It’s time to grab the bull by the horns and to do more refining and upgrading that adds value and creates jobs here. The future is economy, and it will be made in Alberta.

COUNTY RENEWING LEASE NEAR ISLAND LAKE CAMPGROUND

Smoky Lake County is renewing its lease on the crown land used as a recreation area near the Island Lake Campground.

During the Dec. 6 council meeting Planning and Development manager Jordan Raeggg said the county is applying for a four-year lease during which time the area will be resurveyed, and after that will apply for a 20-year lease.

He explained that the former lease was done from the original survey that used old boundaries. The county does not need to lease the bush to the west, and the lake water is lower, so that boundary needs to be changed.

Coun. Conny Orischowski pointed out the east side is where the camp cabins are located, and that is separate from the lease on the west side. “What is the cost for the recreation area?” he asked. “Do we need it?”

Raeggg said the area does not generate much revenue but is an amenity for residents and visitors. “We saw a lot of ATV use there,” said Raeggg. “Maybe we can direct ATV users there so they are not in other campgrounds.” He said the lease payment is $125 for four years and the survey will cost about $5,000.

The Island Lake recreation area is 36 acres of land about 14 miles north of the Town of Smoky Lake. The site has been in operation for many years, with a ground-disturbed recreation area and a nine-stall campground. The area has picnic tables, fire pits, portable toilets and a parking area.

This recreation area is between Island Lake and Hamnoro Lake campgrounds.

County Bylaw Enforcement officer and Parks and Recreation manager Ed English said that in 2018 Island Lake was the only campground to have an increased usage compared to the previous year. Its nine stalls accommodated 167 overnight camping units. The area has picnic tables, fire pits, portable toilets and a parking area.

The recreation area lease was put into county records in a bylaw, so staff can track it and renew it before it expires.

Did you see injury accident at Opal Road?

A vehicle that failed to stop for police collided with a pole sending two occupants to hospital.

On Dec. 18 at approximately 12:39 p.m. on Highway 28 west of Redwater, an Alberta Traffic Sheriff attempted to pull over an eastbound vehicle travelling at a high rate of speed.

The sheriff activated their emergency equipment but quickly realized that the vehicle was not intent on stopping at which time the Sheriff disengaged and notified Redwater RCMP. Continuing eastbound the sheriff witnessed the vehicle collide with a utility pole while attempting to exit north onto Opal Road (BR 224). The vehicle sustained serious damage as a result.

Local Fire rescue, EMS units and RCMP units responded to the scene. Two female occupants were transported to hospital by EMS with undisclosed injuries, with one in more serious condition.

The driver was arrested at the scene without assistance from any RCMP Collision analyst.

Redwater RCMP are requesting anyone who witnessed the collision to contact the detachment at 780-942-3607.

Red Apple toy drive supported local Christmas hampers

Redwater Red Apple’s 10th annual toy drive raised $6,365 in toys for the Redwater and Thorhild Christmas hamper campaigns. The toy drive was held from Nov. 17 to Dec. 8.

“We also hosted our second annual Fill a Sleigh on Dec. 8 and raised $1,625 in toy sales that day, of which 10 percent ($165) of these sales went to the Redwater food bank,” said store manager Sherri Taggart-Dery.

In 2017 the Redwater and Thorhild Christmas Hamper campaigns served 94 households. The annual Together We Care Toy Drive campaign is held by The Bargin! Shop and Red Apple stores across Canada. This year they exceeded their goal and delivered $662,000 in toys to children’s charities. As part of the campaign, each store hosted events such as visits from the local fire and police departments.

“The toys just kept on piling up and we are so thankful to our customers for their overwhelming support this year,” said Red Apple Stores Inc. president and Chief Executive Officer Clinton Wolfd. “It was exciting to see the generosity of our customers and the families filled with toys that would be delivered to families to put under the Christmas tree. We are so proud to be part of communities that truly come together to help make Christmas a little more special for children.”

Military funding too low

Letter to the editor;

How sad it is that the Trudeau government canceled Operation Maple Flag.

This cooperative exercise with Canada’s air force started in 1977 along with other countries around the world in order to train pilots on the latest technology compared to the CF-35s which have replaced the CF-18 jets from Australia. This fighter plane is trailblazing in its performance. Both Trudeaus have chronically under-funded the military and pinched pennies while wasting millions keeping the peace overseas.
