Federal cabinet invited to meet in Alberta

The Prime Minister has been asked by Senator Black to hold a cabinet meeting in Alberta and to see first hand the devastation caused to the province by government policies.

In a letter to the Prime Minister Jan. 8, Senator Black has suggested a Cabinet meeting in Alberta would be beneficial to government and would be a big statement to Albertans that the government will address their concerns.

“I believe the government has earned the right from communities such as Fort McMurray and Grande Prairie about their struggles. My recent visits to these communities left no doubt in my mind that they are suffering,” states Black.

“If this government is going to work for all Canadians, it should come to see the negative effects of their policies on those very same citizens and, if they come to Alberta they will see not all Canadi-ans have been treated fairly,” he added.

Major Crimes Unit investigating after body found in field

The Redwater RCMP have engaged the Major Crimes Unit to take carriage of a suspicious death investigation after a body was found in a field.

On Jan. 4, at 8:00 a.m., the Redwater RCMP responded to a complaint in a field on Range Road 203A. Human remains were located and the RCMP determined the situation was suspicious.

An autopsy was scheduled for Jan. 6 to determine the cause of death. The RCMP are working with the Office of the Chief Medical Examiner to identify the remains.

Performing at Oil Kings game

On Jan. 5th, the dancers from Love Your Dance (Radway) and Xpressions Dance (Barrhead) performed in the Ford Hall of Rogers Place as hockey fans entered the arena to watch the Edmonton Oil Kings take on the Saskatoon Blades. This opportunity was provided to the dancers by the Oilers Entertainment Group as a fundraiser for both organizations. Funds raised from the event will go toward providing dance scholarships to dancers in need.

Premier continues efforts for ‘fair deal’ in meeting with Deputy Prime Minister

Premier Jason Kenney met with Deputy Prime Minister Chrystia Freeland, Jan. 7, to reiterate Alberta’s need for a fair deal within the Canadian federation.

According to a statement from the province, Kenney and Freeland met in person for the third time since her appointment as Deputy Prime Minister and Minister of Intergovernmental Affairs last November, and continued productive work on Alberta’s urgent priorities, including:

- building the TransMountain pipeline expansion project
- an “equalization rebate” from retroactively lifting the per capita cap on the Fiscal Stabilization Program
- addressing the continuing problems with Bill C-69
- support for jobs in the resource and resource-related sector, such as support for decommissioning wells and clean technology approval of the Teck Frontier project, which is a test of the federal government’s commitment to evidence-based approval of new energy projects
- equivalency recognition for Alberta’s methane reduction regulations

“I appreciate that Deputy Prime Minister Freeland has taken the time to travel to Alberta and have these important discussions and to see for herself how serious the economic challenges are for Albertans. I reiterated to her Alberta’s urgent priorities - actions that can be taken now by the federal government to show it is committed to addressing our jobs crisis. We’ve offered clear, practical options to the federal government to support our job creation even as we continue to contribute about $20 billion net each year to the rest of the country. But we need action from Ottawa now,” stated Kenney.

Alberta has contributed $630 billion net to the rest of Canada since 1961. In the last 11 years alone the net transfer from Albertans to the rest of the country was $240 billion, according to the province.

“Given the massive and disproportional contributions Alberta has made to the country over the years, and continues to make, it is not too much to ask that the rest of the country now show its commitment to helping us in our time of need – first and foremost by removing barriers to getting our products to market. We are simply asking for fair treatment,” added Kenney.

Arbitration decisions reflect current economic realities, says Toews

President of Treasury Board and Minister of Finance Travis Toews issued the following statement about two arbitration decisions of no wage increases involving the Alberta Teachers Association and the United Nurses of Alberta.

“These independent public sector wage arbitration outcomes reflect the current economic realities in the province. The decisions align with the crucial need to fix Alberta’s spending problem and ensure the long-term sustainability of high quality services for Albertans.”

As the Mackinnon panel identified, public sector compensation accounts for more than half of government expenses and wages are, on average, substantially higher than other large provinces.

Teachers are angry salaries will be frozen again, says Schilling

In a decision released late Friday afternoon, the arbitration panel established to determine teachers’ salaries for the 2019-2020 school years decided that teacher salary grids would remain frozen.

“This decision will mean that in seven of the last eight years, teachers will have received no overall improvement in their salaries,” observed ATA president Jason Schilling.

“Since 2012, teacher salary increases have been 0, 0, 0, 0, 0, 0 and 0. The province has not been in recession for 8 years—teachers have already done their share.

“This decision just kicks the can down the road,” said Schilling. “Teachers will seek to correct this situation in the next round of collective bargaining.”

With the current agreement expiring August 31, 2020, negotiations toward a new agreement will commence in March. 2020, negotiations toward a new agreement will commence in March.

“The stakes are going to be higher than ever. Frankly, Alberta teachers are tired of having to pay for the mistakes of successive governments to adequately fund public education.”

While teachers will be disappointed with this result, the government was not able to obtain the two percent decrease in salaries it was seeking.
Neighbour prevents $50,000 grain theft

Farmers throughout the region may want to check their grain bins after an incident in the Fort Saskatchewan area.

On Dec. 4, Strathcona County RCMP responded after a keen-eyed citizen called police to report that grain was being removed from a neighbour’s property and did not believe it was authorized. Police attended the rural location near Josepburg and determined that a company had made arrangements to buy the grain.

Further investigation by the Strathcona County RCMP Property Crimes Unit revealed that a company had been contacted by a male purporting to be the seller. Through online and text communication with this male, the grain company arranged to buy over $50,000 worth of grain and had begun the process of removing the grain from the bins on the rural property.

The neighbour was aware that the actual owner was away from the property and police determined that the man involved did not have permission to sell the grain. As a result of the police investigation, a 32-year-old Fort Saskatchewan man was identified and charges were laid.

He was charged with one count of trafficking stolen property over $5,000, released on bail and is scheduled to appear in Sherwood Park Provincial Court on Jan. 15.

“Being aware of your property and what is happening in your neighbourhood makes it easier to identify suspicious activity,” says Constable Allison Gyonyor. “This is a great example of why we want the public to report things that seem out of the ordinary in their area.”

Alberta beef industry needs regulatory change to remain competitive

Collaboratively, the Alberta Cattle Feeders’ Association (ACFA) and the Alberta Beef Producers (ABP) conducted an industry competitiveness study to determine the ability to profitably maintain or enhance market share of the Alberta beef industry in relation to its American counterparts.

In a release Jan. 7 they stated, “The report established that the industry is and has been competitive and remains capable of maintaining competitiveness into the future. There are, however, factors and trends that have the potential to decrease competitiveness if they continue.”

One concern is that in recent years, there have been added costs and regulatory measures imposed on the industry from the three levels of government.

“For the fed cattle industry, the most significant operating cost is feed,” states Janice Tranberg, CEO of ACFA. “Alberta has had a historical advantage due to barley, but with recent weather impacts, will that advantage remain in our favour? Then, after stripping away feed costs, the long-term margins in the industry are near breakeven. If pending taxes, fuel, taxes, insurance and other supplies. These costs are relatively small compared to the feed costs but in a competitive narrow margin business, they are critical.

“The big question for the cow-calf producer is why is the herd not growing in Alberta? Opportunities for higher returns in other sectors, farmland prices, and the cost of equipment and labour make entering the industry more difficult,” states Rich Smith, Executive Director of ABP, in the release. “ABP and ACFA are continually working with governments on producers’ behalf to reduce regulatory burden to keep them profitable and the industry not only viable, but growing.”

Don’t make it easy for thieves if you are going on winter get-away

It’s the time of year for planning vacations to escape the winter. While you’re away, making sure your property is secure is just as important as remembering to bring your luggage.

In January 2019 there were over 430 break and enters to residences in Alberta. RCMP jurisdiction and from January-November 2019 there were over 5,456.

Crime Prevention Through Environmental Design (CPTED) is a great way to make your property less appealing to criminals. They offer the following suggestions:

- Install timers on lights.
- Disconnect power to garage door.
- Invest in a home security system.
- Lock all windows and doors.
- Have someone shovel your driveway.
- Don’t make boxes from expensive gifts obvious in your recycling.

It’s also important not to post pictures on social media. If you post your upcoming plans, or activities during vacation, people will know that your house is empty.

RCMP encourage the public to report any criminal or suspicious activity to police. Reports tell police where to look, who to look for, and where to patrol in the future. If you see a crime in progress, dial 911. To remain anonymous, contact Crime Stoppers at 1-800-222-8477 (TIPS), online at www.P3Tips.com or by using the “P3 Tips” app.

Saluting the vision which made confederation possible

Premier Jason Kenney issued the following statement about Sir John A. Macdonald Day, Jan. 11:

“Today, we celebrate Sir John A. Macdonald, a man of vision that made Confederation possible more than 150 years ago.

“As he fostered consensus among political factions with differing agendas, he transformed a bold vision into reality, creating this great northern Dominion from sea to sea.

“He is Canada’s second longest-serving prime minister, having held that position for 19 years, with a record six majority government victories.

“To quote Sir Wilfred Laurier, The life of Sir John Macdonald, from the time he entered Parliament, is the history of Canada.”

“Happy Sir John A. Macdonald Day, everyone!”

—Alberta Premier Jason Kenney

The planet will do what it has always done, says writer

Letter to the editor;

I object to the madness of “carbon capture” and the reduction of methane emissions. No matter how we reduce these gasses from entering the atmosphere, the planet will still do what it has always done.

The main governor of temperature in the solar system is the sun. Archeology alone shows that our home world has made glaciaations and abundant warmth. All these happened before we humans came on the scene.

Striving to control this planet’s warming and cooling is about as futile as trying to stop the wind. And no matter how much our foolish governments try to tax us, it won’t stop what the weather does.
