Residents of Thorhild and Smoky Lake counties may have their pick of four candidates in the April 16 provincial election. People living in Redwater and the east side of Sturgeon County have five candidates to choose among.

On the date of the election call, March 19, the following candidates had put their names forward to run in the new Athabasca-Barbarah-Westlock constituency, which includes Thorhild and Smoky Lake counties.

Glenn Van Dijken, who is the incumbent MLA of the present Barbrand-Morrisville-Westlock riding, is running for the United Conservative Party (UCP).

Theresa Tschach, a former Town of Smoky Lake councillor, represents the New Democratic Party (NDP).

On the ballot for the Alberta Party is Wayne Ruffin, Buster Malcolm is running as an independent.

Theresa Taschuk, a former Town of Smoky Lake councillor, represents the New Democratic Party (NDP).

The creation of a new project manager position would replace the need for external engineering services for the bridges entirely, and it would be at a significant cost savings, said Franklin. "The priority for the project manager would be all aspects of the county bridges." Other projects could be added if the project manager’s work schedule allows.

Coun. Joyce Pierce noted that an engineer qualified to do bridges probably wouldn’t be able to do lift stations or other work required by municipalities. She agreed with Pasay that council needs more discussion about this.

The numbers may make sense for Thorhild County to hire a project manager for its bridge inspections and repairs, but council wants to consider the situation more before making a decision.

CAO Wayne Franklin proposed creating a project manager position to have an individual who would focus on bridges. Coun. Cheryl Pasay said council needs to discuss if and how much bridge work it will undertake annually before a decision can be made on having a project manager. After a lengthy discussion council unanimously passed reeve Kevin Grumetza’s motion to have administration bring information on the bridge replacement program. No motion was made regarding a project director.

Franklin said the county would have cost savings if even just one bridge was done per year. Given that the recent bridge work tenders were lower than expected, there are funds in the bridge reserves to cover the cost of a project manager for this year.

Thorhild considering project manager for bridges

The Morinville-St. Albert riding covers the east half of Sturgeon County and a portion of St. Albert, but has its greatest number of voters residing in St. Albert.

The numbers may make sense for Thorhild County to hire a project manager for its bridge inspections and repairs, but council wants to consider the situation more before making a decision.

CAO Wayne Franklin proposed creating a project manager position to have an individual who would focus on bridges. Coun. Cheryl Pasay said council needs to discuss if and how much bridge work it will undertake annually before a decision can be made on having a project manager. After a lengthy discussion council unanimously passed reeve Kevin Grumetza’s motion to have administration bring information on the bridge replacement program. No motion was made regarding a project director.

Franklin reported the county has $44 million in bridge work to do over the next 10 years. That will need about $440,000 (10 percent of $4.4 million per year) in bridge project engineering each year. The $5 million in bridge projects being done this year, to replace bridges washed out during last year’s spring floods, included about $500,000 in contracted engineering and design.

If in heaven forbid, a couple months time we lose another bridge, we hope to have someone to work on it," said Franklin.

He explained that if the county does four bridge projects per year engineering and design will cost $440,000 and bridge inspections $38,000 for a total of $478,000 per year. An on-staff project manager salary would be $115,000-$150,000 (including benefits) per year. Franklin said the county would have cost savings if even just one bridge was done per year.

Theresa Taschuk of Smoky Lake is the Alberta New Democratic Party (NDP) candidate for the Athabasca-Barriere-Westlock constituency. She was confirmed as the NDP candidate March 17.

“I just want to be part of a government that works for something, not against something,” said Taschuk March 18. “I believe in good government plans for the future. I want to work to make things better for Albertans.

A long-time NDP supporter, she decided to run in this election shortly after current Athabasca-Sturgeon-Redwater MLA Colin Natleby announced on Feb. 5 he will not seek re-election. “I decided to run just a little while ago, after Colin decided not to,” Taschuk said. “I’m hoping to keep up the good work of Rachel Notley and the Alberta New Democrats. I want to add Alberta be a great place to live, where nobody gets left behind.”

Taschuk hopes to be elected and have the opportunity to work towards establishing a strong, stable economy, getting proposed pipelines to tidewater built, having needed healthcare and education services and good jobs for workers.

“I’ve been a democratic socialist all my life,” Taschuk said. “I’ve worked hard with municipal politics and many service clubs. I always, look forward to new and exciting things.”

She served two terms on Town of Smoky Lake municipal council, from 2007 to 2013, and operates a small business, a child care facility.

Running in this spring’s provincial election against Taschuk will be United Conservative Glenn Van Dijken (incumbent MLA for Barrie-Brook-Merriville-Westlock), Alberta Party candidate Wayne Reaume and Independent Buster Malcolm.

The Athabasca-Barriere-Westlock riding includes the counties of Thorhild and Smoky Lake.

Ron and Charmaine Krywko specialize in growing CDC Raezer green pea seed on Krywko Seed Farm west of Morinville.

About 15 percent of the Krywko farm’s 3,000 acres are used for seed production. Although they presently specialize in green peas, they previously also grew canola, wheat and barley seed.

During close to 35 years of seed growing Ron has gone from marketing seed through the Alberta Wheat Pool and United Grain Growers to wholesaling it through Vitera and Agricore. He presently markets it himself. Krywkos grow registered and certified foundation seed which they sell to seed growers and to commercial farmers. Most of the seed is sold in Alberta, although some goes to eastern Canada.

“There’s not a lot of green pea seed in the area,” said Ron. “There’s a lot of yellow peas.” He feels Raezer is well suited for our growing region and has great color retention, lodge resistance, and high yield potential.

Krywko also grows commercial pea feed. “Ironically, split peas are worth more than whole peas,” Ron said. “Yet as a producer you get docked for split ones in your sample.”

He has grown peas since he started farming in 1985. “There are important part of crop rotations. ‘The benefits of a pulse crop on the soil makes agronomic sense,’” he said.

Ron has always farmed separately from his parents, Ed and Paulette Krywko. Five years ago he and Charmaine purchased the home quarter, where he grew up, from his parents. It is part of their family farm on which everyone lends a hand.

The Krywkos have five children, Cesylia, Sherneese, Kelsey, Desmond and Marshall. Marshall is married to Becca and they have a young son, Weston. Marshall recently began his own farm operation.

Ron sees family farms as a vital part of Canada’s culture and food supply. “Family farms are so important to food safety,” he said. “And it’s a way of life and of teaching your family the basis of life and how to work together. You put your heart into it, and it becomes your life.”

Ron enjoys golfing and spending time with his sons on local courses.

Because of the high production costs, he believes food does not belong in the free trade system. “We can’t compete with other countries,” Ron pointed out. “They can produce food for a lot less, yet we sell into the same market. We have to rely on export markets.” He hopes that by being recognized for quality and meeting industry standards, Canadian producers can get a premium price.

Krywko stays current on agricultural practices and attend industry conferences. They placed second in Alberta in the 2015 Western Canadian Proving Ground Yield contest with 81.3 bushel per acre canola.

Apart from working on the farm, Krywko enjoy a winter trip to someplace warm. In summer Ron enjoys golfing with his boys on local courses.

“Family farms are so important to food safety,” he said. “And it’s a way of life and of teaching your family the basis of life and how to work together. You put your heart into it, and it becomes your life.”

That becoming more important as consumers look for locally grown foods and information on how they were produced.

“I believe the general public likes locally grown food,” said Ron. “I’ll support businesses in Morinville before going to St. Albert or Edmonton.”

He believes that, like other businesses, family farms need to be slowly grown to keep up with the economy. He feels it would be a sad day when farms are all corporately owned by large companies. “With that in mind, Krywkos are considering expanding into hemp or faba beans.

“It will be challenging in the future with the cost of equipment,” said Ron. “Agriculture is huge dollars. You’ve got to spend a lot to make any money. The general public doesn’t understand what it costs to farm.”

New shareholders are always welcome.

Thorhild Central School won a $1,000 Fortis Alberta Green Up grant to assist the Jr. High Outdoor Education students take a trip to the Pulsadres Center in Jasper National Park this spring.

About 20 students will be on the three day trip to participate in outdoor adventure activities such as kayaking, mountain biking, orienteering and survival skills. Students learn leadership, technical skills and safety considerations for each activity as well as environmental concepts related to them. Students will prepare for the trip during classes leading up to it.

Teacher Zak Rosychuk thanked Fortis for the grant and said the students are also fundraising to help reduce their costs for the field trip. Although the Fortis grant and funds raised during highway clean-up cover a significant chunk of the cost, each student may need about $200 to participate.

The Fortis Alberta Green Up grant program is designed to help create or enhance an environmental program for students in elementary and junior high schools in the Fortis service area. This year Fortis awarded 25 of the $1,000 Green Up grants.

Thorhild Central School won a $1,000 Fortis Alberta Green Up grant to assist the Jr. High Outdoor Education students take a trip to the Pulsadres Center in Jasper National Park this spring.

About 20 students will be on the three day trip to participate in outdoor adventure activities such as kayaking, mountain biking, orienteering and survival skills. Students learn leadership, technical skills and safety considerations for each activity as well as environmental concepts related to them. Students will prepare for the trip during classes leading up to it.

Teacher Zak Rosychuk thanked Fortis for the grant and said the students are also fundraising to help reduce their costs for the field trip. Although the Fortis grant and funds raised during highway clean-up cover a significant chunk of the cost, each student may need about $200 to participate.

The Fortis Alberta Green Up grant program is designed to help create or enhance an environmental program for students in elementary and junior high schools in the Fortis service area. This year Fortis awarded 25 of the $1,000 Green Up grants.

Henry Moscaluk, who passed away in August 2018, was recognized by Friends of the Thorhild Swimming Pool Association (FOTSPA) president Joanna Rusinko for his enthusiastic support of FOTSPA and the fun casinos it held to raise money for the pool.

“He’s going to be missed,” said Rusinko. “He’d always stay to the very end. Everyone knew Henry. He was well liked.” He passed away in August 2018 at 89 years old.

During its March 16 fun casino FOTSPA added a fourth wild card to the program in honor of Henry. Rusinko thanked Henry’s widow, Helen, and their son, Russell, for the $250 donation made in Henry’s name.

“The family’s pretty honored,” said Russell. “My dad liked to come here.”

“He loved poker,” said Helen. “He never missed a game here.” She said all their children learned to swim at the Thorhild pool, so she understands how important it is.

Camaraderie, mentorship, respect part of archery experience for TCS

Thorhild Central School Bulldog Archery team had three shooters place in the tops 25 at the National Archery in the Schools Program (NASP) Provincial Tournament at the Expo Centre in Edmonton on March 14. There are 56 archers on the Bulldogs team; 26 participated in provincials.

“They kids are absolutely amazing,” said coach Christina Gabby. “I’m so proud of them all.”

Dawson Barr had the top Bulldogs score of 283, which placed him sixth overall of the 859 boys in the tournament.

Kaycee Seobey shot a 276 and placed 13th out of the 714 girls in the tournament. Victoria Dutchak earned a score of 272 for 22nd place.

Gabby said that although the archers compete against each other, they also have great camaraderie. The older students mentor the younger ones, coaching them and talking to them on the firing line during practices.

“We see the fruit of that when they’re on the fire line at tournaments,” Gabby said. “There were 85 shooters at a time at the Edmonton Expo Center. You see how our younger ones look up to the older ones, how they model their form and their respect and professionalism. They’re great kids.”

Pembina Place user fees increasing

User fees at Pembina Place in Redwater will increase 2.5 percent effective April 1. Redwater swimming pool rates have no changes.

Council set the rates during its March 19 meeting after a lengthy discussion on whether to keep rates the same as as they were the past two years or increase them slightly.

Coun. Rob Olsen initially favored keeping the rates the same. He felt the comparative rates administration provided were skewed by inclusion of rates from outside the immediate area (St. Paul, Beaumont) and by the Morinville rates.

“Morinville is asking for megabucks trying to pay for ...,” Olsen paused, then said, “everything.” Morinville is nearly finished constructing a $30 million recreation center.

“Morinville is asking for megabucks trying to pay for ...,” Olsen paused, then said, “everything.” Morinville is nearly finished constructing a $30 million recreation center.

Coun. Dave McRae said that with a couple of exceptions, Redwater’s rates are significantly below other fees in the area. While he did not want to jeopardize users, he believed “a small increase is required” and said he would feel better making small increases to gradually cover costs.

Coun. Connie Butcher noted the fees have increased eight percent during the last four years. She said an increase will be needed this year or soon afterwards even if it is just enough to cover the carbon tax, and suggested a slight increase would cover some town costs while being reasonable for residents. She noted utilities are always at cost recovery for users, but recreation is subsidized.

Mayor Mel Smith said after that day’s announcement of a provincial election being held in April, they should see the carbon tax disappear in a few months. (The United Conservative Party promised that, if elected, it will scrap the carbon tax implemented by the New Democratic Party.)

Coun. Joanne Williams said a rate increase will be needed to cover the increase in maintenance costs and the economy is getting better. “I feel that in a year everyone will be getting back on their feet again,” she said.

Council unanimously passed the 2.5 percent Pembina Place fee increase while keeping the swimming pool rates unchanged. An additional fee of $100 was created for four hours or less weekday use of the Cultural Centre for meetings and small private events. This rate was established because the upstairs meeting rooms in Pembina Place now house the Fitness Centre.
